STRIKE NEARING A SETTLEMENT

Minister of Labor in Conference With Strike Leaders and G.T.R. Officials.

Montreal, Aug. 1.—Conflicting statements as to the features of the Grand Trunk strike, the following statements being credited to the various sources: "It is understood that an agreement has been reached, but the details are not yet given out." As soon as this statement was made the officials of the unions were communicated with. Mr. Garretson, vice-president of the conductors' union, expressed surprise at the statement, and immediately conferred with President Lee of the trainmen. As a result, the two presidents dictated and signed the following statement: "We have no knowledge of any settlement having been arrived at; the best proof of this is that the strike has not been declared off, nor will it be, until we have such knowledge as to have occurred therein."

Montreal, Aug. 1.—The negotiations between Hon. W. L. Mackenzie King, Minister of Labor, and the officials of the Grand Trunk Railway and the two allied brotherhoods of the men continued today. While it is impossible to state categorically what will be the outcome of the conference between the Federal minister and the two factions in the dispute, it is safe to say that a few hours will see the matter decided one way or the other.

Not Looking on Outcome. The officials of the men's organizations say that they are not banking upon the outcome of the negotiations but are attending to the details in connection with the strike. The company on the other hand, state that satisfactory progress is being made replacing the vacant ranks and that the majority of their services are running regularly.

President Garretson, of the Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen, states that so far as the men were concerned there was reason to be gratified. The minister of labor, Mr. Garretson, states was still endeavoring to make the Grand Trunk take a reasonable attitude in the dispute, but was unable to say if his success he had been rewarded.

A Significant Move. Early this afternoon Messrs. Lee and Garretson, the two presidents of the organizations involved in the controversy, with Messrs. Murdoch and Macleay, left on a secret mission in connection with the strike, as neither of the two presidents expected to be called into the matter by the minister, their mission this afternoon has a significant aspect in all probability the matter will be settled between the opposing factions almost immediately.

Caboose Shown Bullet Marks. Brockville, Ont., Aug. 1.—A freight car which arrived in Brockville last evening from Montreal reported that a short distance east of here about had been fired at the caboose and as evidence the windows were pointed to, showing bullet marks. However, the police by the police convinced them that the shooting was done by the occupants of the van, as a bullet mark was found on the inside which could not have been seen from the outside through the windows. The officers found two 18 calibre bullets in a van corresponding with the holes. Conductor Brown and brakeman P. Keller were brought to police headquarters, and though closely questioned stated to their story. No action was taken.

LIVERPOOL SLUMS TO BE WIPED OUT

Every great city has had its demotion, but in almost every case it was regarded as a disaster in the first place and was a result of the destructive forces of nature.

Rome lost its suburbs through the great fire; Paris and London, Moscow and indeed every ancient city, have been periodically purged and cleaned from time to time. But it has always been against man's protest.

Never, before the city of Liverpool was possessed by a heroic notion, have men gone together and determined to pull down in its entirety the decadent sections which previous generations had built up in the course of centuries.

Now the greatest of housing reforms is under way. English cities have speedily cleaned blocks and alleys in the last decade; and the study of housing the poor has occupied municipalities for a score of years. Investigations and cross-investigations have been made and reports filed. But who would have dreamed ten years ago, when a town shouted for praise if it widened a street, that the day was at hand for tearing down cities and rebuilding them?

Eighteen Thousand Houses. Eighteen thousand houses of the Liverpool poor are now going to be razed and as many wholesome, cheerful homes for the working people to rise in their places—it seems stupendous. It is the greatest philanthropic work of which one could conceive, for everyone knows that a man's house has as much to do with the state of his body, mind and soul as anything material can have.

An ordinary city of about 100,000 population is represented by the 18,000 houses rebuilt or rebuilding. Now only 4,000 unit dwellings remain, and they, in time, are to give way to modern enlightenment.

That is the Liverpool poor benefit. Breeding places of disease that menace the entire community, rich as well as poor, are wiped out. Economically also the result is equally beneficial. For the value of a home is much more valuable than one in a hotel.

Perhaps no city is so seriously overcrowded as the metropolis itself, for it is much larger than the city. English cities that problems can not help being more problematic. But Liverpool is a great shipping center, as well as a great manufacturing center, and the city is a great manufacturing center, and the city is a great manufacturing center, and the city is a great manufacturing center.

So this heroic measure of ripping the old down and building the new on the aspect of an act of desperation. The poor of other English cities are poor, but the poor of Liverpool are richly poor. When a commission headed by Mr. James Watson, the municipality's behalf in 1901 to study the improvements that other cities had undertaken, they came to realize that a new and independent problem faced them that was quite unlike that of any other city, for their poor were so much poorer that calculations had to be reversed before they could be borrowed from the enterprises of other cities.

If the poorest householder in Glasgow could pay 60 cents a week and no more for his room, on the average the Liverpool houses had to be built so that the poorest man would not have to pay more than 50 cents, and no more.

One Thousand People Per Acre. Some idea of the conditions may be had from the fact that, in the densely populated sections, there were nearly 1,000 people to the acre, and in other sections an average of eight or ten persons living in apartments, tenements or flats.

Moreover, it was said that one-fifth of the houses were constantly infected with one contagious disease or another. Now, this latter statement is simply amazing in its significance. Think of every fifth house placed for 365 days in a year in a condition of constant plague.

The fifth of the matter is that, before Liverpool tackled the problem of preventing malarial disease, it was a favorite resort for all manner of plagues and pests, such as were frequent in the middle ages. In the sixteenth and seventeenth centuries the town was well rid of rats from the map on a number of occasions.

It is old action, which lies between what is known as the "pool" and the waterfront, used to be a veritable nest of disease, full of crooked alleys and dingy holes, that fostered life and death malarial fever, as well as modern cities fostered commerce.

Then was the fashion for tearing things to pieces a mania. It seemed to be a peculiar fault of the town, that it was a demand for a clean, healthy body, and it was always allowed to grow up again as it lived, and it always grew into the same old town.

Notes for their open-handed people

That is the chief reason that a city is considered to undertake a great reform, such as tearing down 15,000 of its houses and putting up what it seems proper and fitting kind of homes for its people who are not in position to pick and choose. Now, before we tell the other reason for the move, let us interpolate the information that Liverpool is very near 1,000,000 in population, and covers almost 4,000 acres.

Power of British Cities. The second reason for this general reform, which would be quite impossible outside of England, lies in the fact that the municipality is doing the largest share of it, and can do it.

In the year 1909 the city of England grew weary of a complexity of laws regulating public improvements which made head progress a constant struggle. As a result, they can carry on reforms which in any other land would be branded as socialist and beyond the conservative right of a municipality.

TOWER OF PISA SINKING.

Expert Commission Reports Founda- tion Shifting Giving Way. London, Aug. 1.—The famous leaning tower of Pisa, with its eight tiers of marble colonnades, is threatened with the same fate that overtaken St. Mark's Campanile in Venice. A royal commission of experts, as the result of a thorough investigation, reports that the foundation is slowly giving way. This, it appears, instead of being a minor, agonizing issue, as it was generally believed to be, consists simply of a ring of masonry exactly corresponding to the huge cylindrical mass superimposed thereon, which fact confirms the commission that the tower was originally built perpendicularity.

TOFIELD-EDMONTON'S NEIGHBORING G.T.P. TOWN

Tofield, the first town east of Edmonton on the line of the Grand Trunk Pacific Railway, lies just beyond the Beaver Hills in the heart of the Beaver Lake District. On the first of July last, Tofieldians celebrated the sixteenth anniversary of the settlement of which the town is now the centre. The name "Tofield" was first applied to a number of town sites established fifteen years ago, with Geo. Cookson, Sr., as first postmaster. The name came from the settler's doctor, J. H. Tofield, M.D., who lived on a homestead and cared for the sick for many miles around.

Branch Line to Calgary.

In October, 1909, Tofield was incorporated as a town, the first on the G.T.P. in Alberta. Since that time its growth has been steady and substantial, and now it takes its place in the front rank of the towns of the province.

The town was selected by the Grand Trunk Pacific as the point from which the branch line south to Calgary should be run. The road on this line is now laid down and will be in a year's time will be running from Tofield to Calgary. From Edmonton, Tofield is forty miles distant by rail.

Assessment of Town $275,000.

The limits of the corporation embrace an area of 1,200 acres, and extend to a point a mile distant from the margin of the Beaver Lake, which is growing in popularity as a summer resort.

The assessment of the town on a single tax basis is approximately $275,000. There is but a small debt—about $10,000. A few weeks ago, by-laws were passed for the raising by subscription of $100,000 for water-works system, $25,000 for sidewalks, $100 for exhibition grounds, $460 for a market site and $300 for a nuisance ground. The work of drilling which have visited the community nearly all the buildings are equipped with fire extinguishers and the town has two portable engines of 50 gallon capacity each.

A rural phone system has been established in Tofield connecting the town with farmers for miles around and giving the farmers communication with one another. The government phone system has been in operation in Tofield for some time.

A Fine Brick School.

Tofield boasts a fine brick school building erected last year at a cost of $11,000. The building is two stories high and contains four rooms. It was opened last fall and occupied by classes at New Year's. The school work is in charge of three capable teachers, who teach besides the regular public school courses that of the first two years at the High School. There are 110 pupils on the roll and the average daily attendance was 85.

Coal of excellent quality may be purchased at $1.75 at the mine, a short distance south of the town. Two mines were in operation last winter and a third company has bought the land and will commence operations in a few months.

Town Revenues from Fire.

A fire visited Tofield on April 27th last which did $10,000 damage. Practically no trace of it is to be found now, as all the buildings destroyed have been reconstructed.

A little over a year ago the town was visited by a fire which destroyed four buildings on the opposite side of the street. Better ones have been built in their place.

The town has a volunteer fire brigade which has done very effective work in checking the conflagration

C. C. HARRIMAN.

Successful in gardening.

I came to the Beaver Lake district from St. Louis, Mo., eight years ago. Since then I have been farming and raising grain and stock. In this district one can raise good crops of small grain, oats, particularly well. As soon as the farmers "catch on" to raising alfalfa, it will be grown for hay to eat green, and for hay. Some I sowed last June in green to-day, April 28th.

All kinds of farm roots and all garden vegetables do well if given self a chance. One can grow as much as enough to eat now. Timely done well here, but not much used. The prairie hay can't be beat. He has tried raising apples yet, but red, black and white currants grow to perfection.

Better Than MINN. T. GRAY.

I left the State of Washington four years ago for Alberta. I landed in Tofield the 11th day of May, 1906, and have been engaged in farming in the Beaver Lake district ever since.

How to Grow Strawberries.

It is a surprise to the writer of this article that so many of the people of Alberta seem to think strawberries are not raised in this province.

However, I have been very successful in raising them for two years now. I have a fine 1.2 mile from Tofield. The method followed by this. The ground in which they are to be planted must be free from all weeds. The ground should be laid out in rows four feet apart. Then set good thirty plants two feet apart. The rows, keep them free from weeds and grass, and pick off all the blossoms the first year. Then in the fall cover them with hay that is free from weeds and you will have the following year an abundance of fine large strawberries.

Care should be taken in not uncovering them too early in the spring, and also in keeping the runners cut close.

A MILE OF BEAVER LAKE DISTRICT.

By Geo. A. HARRIMAN.

Big House in May, 21, 1910.

Tofield, Alberta.

Board of Trade.

Since I have been in Western Alberta, Tofield vicinity, for three years, and am greatly impressed with this part of the country and its prospects.

The rich soil produces an excellent quality of all small grain. One of the many fine features of this district was a struggle for existence, and the future looked like a blank.

But they struggled bravely on, assisting each other in case of need and hoping for better times. Yet no one dreamed that in sixteen years there should be so much a great change. What was then a great, silent country, has today become a bustling scene of activity. And the Beaver settlement, too, has caught the progress, and is developing most good roads, well cultivated fields, well built, comfortable houses, and a fine school. The Beaver witnesses that a new era of progress and civilization has been set on foot.

And the hardy pioneers are reaping the fruits of their early struggles and hardships. P. B. ANDERSON.

ON POWER BREAKING.

I have been requested to give a few remarks about our district. I landed here ten years ago and must say that I like it here. I came from Iowa, where the price of land ranged from $20 to $100 per acre, and here it was that time it was $3 per acre. It is now from $15 up, and take it one year with another we can make as much of each acre of cultivated land here as we could have in Iowa. I have raised a splendid crop of wheat, oats and barley. The wheat has been touched by frost a few times, but I think the main trouble is that we have been using a late wheat. I have raised 40 bushels to the acre of good hard Fife wheat. Potatoes and all kinds of roots do well. I raise quite a number of cattle as we have lots of hay and good water. Horses well on the prairie the year round. Wild small berries grow in abundance. Live at the south end of Beaver Lake. P. O. MOLINE.

Experience in Sheep Raising.

FOUR TONS OF ALBERTA HAY.

Like Bush Cutter.

In answer to the question, how I am satisfied with the brush cutting machine, I would state that I think it is the proper solution of the brush cutting problem.

I had 80 acres cleared by the machine last year when the machine first started. I have been cleared in six days at a cost of $1.15 per acre. The brush and stumps were removed, and the growth was heavy stuff. This spring I tried it in and burned it down. It is now in the hands of the ready for the year.

Settled 17 Years Ago.

I came to the Beaver Lake district seventeen years ago from Nebraska. It is my opinion that this district affords the very best conditions for mixed farming. In the early years, some so far from markets, money came slowly, but with the coming of the railroad and the market near at hand things are going right along.
